What cookies do we apply?

Cookies are used on our website to save technical information. A cookie is a small information file left on your device by a website, and it allows our website to track your activities. Cookies, for example, allow us to track:

Visitors' IP addresses;

Visit date and time;

Visitor's referring URL (the site from which they came);

Visited pages on our website;

The type and version of the browser used, as well as the operating system.

Cookies and technical information are used to enhance your experience on our website

The website will be optimized for performance and user experience. Cookies can be placed by Resource Property Management itself as well as by third parties with whom Resource Property Management collaborates. The RPM Property website places the following types of cookies:

Functional cookies

The website functions properly and provides requested services only through the use of cookies placed by Resource Property Management. We use these cookies to save certain user settings, to store any log-in information, and to improve the website's user-friendliness.

Analytical cookies

In order to improve the experience and quality of the website, Resource Property Management utilizes analytical cookies, such as the Google Analytics cookie. These track, among other things, how many people view a site, which pages they visit, and how long they stay there. We use the collected data to improve the service and to customize the website content to meet the requests and needs of our customers.

In order to use Google Analytics, Resource Property Management has signed a processor agreement with Google. By signing this agreement, Google Analytics cookies will be set in a privacy-friendly manner. No permission has been given by Resource Property Management for Google to use information obtained through Resource Property Management for other services provided by Google.

Tracking or advertising cookies

Cookies that collect data about website users' (internet) behaviour are called tracking cookies. In order to use our website optimally, these tracking cookies are used. The cookies, for example, record information about the user's visit so that relevant information, such as filling in any forms or presenting ads that match the user's (search) profile, can be used on a subsequent visit.

Disabling Cookies

You can set your browser to reject all cookies or to alert you when a cookie is sent; however, most browsers are set to accept cookies by default. Some services and features on our site and other websites will not function correctly if cookies are disabled within your browser.

Social media

By selecting any of the social media buttons on our website, you can share information on social media. The social media may place cookies through these buttons. We do not control how these parties use the information. Their use and provision of the information is their responsibility. This use is governed by the privacy policies and general terms and conditions of the relevant social media.

How long do we keep your data?

Unless there is a statutory obligation for retention, Resource Property Management does not store your data longer than necessary for the execution of the agreements and in any case for more than 24 months after termination of the agreement.

The cancellation of a customer card or un-subscribe from a newsletter is considered the termination of an agreement in this case. You can request that your data be removed in its entirety (see below).
